Reaching The Spot

It Has Been Done So Scores of Norway Citizens Say.

To get rid of an aching back,
The sharp twinges,
The tired-out feelings,
You must reach the spot—get at the cause.
In many cases 'tis the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Norway citizens testify.

M. M. Kilgore, farmer, Danforth St., Norway, Me., says: "I know of no other remedy like Doan's Kidney Pills. I had backache and rheumatic pain for more than a year. My kidneys were the cause of the trouble. Sometimes I was so lame I could hardly stand. I did not rest much and was feeling miserable when I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got them at Stone's Drug Store, and a few boxes cured me, I never fail to recommend this remedy."

Of Great Use In Breaking Up Colds

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is a Thing Long Desired.

Everyone knows the value of castor oil in breaking up fall and winter colds, but most people have found it too hard to take.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil does away with this only objection. It is pure, simple castor oil without tast or odor. Nothing is added; nothing good taken out.

In making castor oil tasteless, Spencer Kellogg & Sons or Buffalo have discovered a secret that had evaded chemists for 3000 years.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil works better than the old evil-tasting, evil-smelling kind. It operates pleasantly, without griping, and does not upset the stomach. Children take it easily.

Do not confuse Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil with prepared, mixed or flavored castor oils. It is the only true, pure, tasteless kind. Sold in all drug stores, not in bulk, but in 25c and 50c sizes. The public is protected by the trade mark—a green castor leaf, bearing the signature—Kellogg's.

Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., refiners of vegetable oils.

For sale by Frank Kimball. 6

Maine Water Power.

Cyrus C. Babb, the chief engineer of the Maine State Water Storage Commission, has long had a theory that the Maine water powers, instead of the Maine lumber, should be given the first place among the natural assets of the State, and he now feels that his recent studies and surveys have given him data to support his theory.

He finds that for the seven years from 1905 th 1911 inclusive the annual lumbering operations resulted in an average of 1,000,000,000 feet board measure, valued at $16,500,000. He also finds that the total power developed by some 1200 plants on the rivers and streams of Maine is now about 376,000 horsepower. The annual value of a horsepower has to be set at only $44 to make this water power worth as much each year as the output of the forests has averaged in the past decade.

But that is only the beginning of the story. Though the State now ranks third in the Union in the amount of water power developed and second in the amount used for manufacturing purposes, New York being first, it has made only a start in the direction of such development. The Kennebec alone is capable of producing almost as much water power as has the whole State, and with its stream it drains but a fifth of the State's area.

The "white coal" of Maine, the water that tumbles over the rocks from the 2200 lakes and ponds to the ocean, has golden possibilities that will be more and more realized as the coal of commerce becomes less plentiful. The State is wisely working on the problem of increasing the storage basins, so that less of the water will run to waste in the spring freshet season, and Mr. Babb asserts that the pesent reservoir storage of 200,000,000,000 cubic feet can easily be doubled.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & Co. Toledo, Ohio.

A New Law.

Road commissioners will not be elected at town meetings this year, but must be appointed by the selectmen. The law now reads as follows: "The selectmen of each town shall annually choose by written appointment a road commissioner who shall hold his office until the first Monday of April in the year following; provided, however, that selectmen may so choose such commissioner for a longer term, not exceeding three years.

"Any town may, at its option, vote to have not more than three road commissioners whose appointment, powers and duties shall be the same a prescribed for a single commissioner. Any road commissioner may be removed from office by the selectmen for incompetency or neglect to perform his official duties. Selectmen may act as road commissioners."

A Lost Pet.

I sometimes wonder if our pets
Won't live again, somewhere,
And in the heaven looked for by us
They too won't have a share.
For nineteen years dear Tabby lived
His lovely kitty life.
Always peaceful, loving, kind,
So unlike human strife.
And when he knew the end was near
He kissed his friends goodbye.
Brave, and loving to the end
He laid him down to die.
How many times he's climbed the tree
'Neath which his body lies,
Looked down at us so cunningly
With happy, laughing eyes.
As much's to say, how smart I am,
For pray don't you remember,
I'm nineteen years of age
This very last December.
I never look upon his grave,
Without the starting tear,
For I remember lonely hours
He always tried to cheer.
God bless your memory, Tabby dear,
We won't forget you, never,
Enshrined you are within our hearts
Forever and forever.

Unsexed.

t doesn't unsex her to to toil in a factory,
Minding the looms from the dawn till the night;
To deal with a schoolful of children refractory
Doesn't unsex her in anyone's sight;
Work in a store—where her back aches inhumanely—
Doesn't unsex her at all, you will note;
But think how exceedingly rough and unwomanly
Woman would be if she happened to vote!
To sweat in a laundry that's torrid and torrider
Doesn't subtract from her womanly charm;
And scrubbing the flags in an echoing corridor
Doesn't unsex her—so where is the harm?
It doesn't unsex her to nurse us with bravery,
Loosing death's hand from its grip on the throat;
That doesn't seem to unsex her a particle,
But, Ah! how the voices grow quivery, quavery,
"Labor is noble"—so somebody wrote—
Wailing: "Alas, 'twill unsex her to vote!"
But ballots are known as a dangerous article;
She's feminine still when she juggles the crockery,
Woman's unsexed if you give her the vote!
Bringing you blithely the order you give;
Toil in a sweatshop where life is a mockery,
Just for the pittance on which she can live—

How Broad a Field Does a Good Bank Cover?

Doubtless there are some in this community who look upon the Bank merely as a place to deposit their cash in safety, and issue it at will by means of the convenient check book.

If that were all the scope of a Bank's activities, it could not exist.

It would be impossible here to enumerate all the functions of a modern bank. The financial secrets of the community are locked within it. Human aspirations are centered here and to one after another, as the people come and go in a day's work, the Bank offers its ministrations, many of them absolutely free, in a way that helps and satisfies.

The modern Bank helps the business man, the widow and the children to conserved fortunes and invest them. It effects transfers of funds to world-wide points. It gathers the capital of the community and pours it into the channels of business. In every way it exerts a beneficent influence, not only on those who frequent it, but on the community.

Those who frequent this Bank as patrons make these things possible Are you one of them?

NERVOUS PEOPLE

are usually thin and easily worried, sleep does not refresh and the system gradually weakens from insufficient nourishment.

Scott's Emulsion corrects nervousness by its force of concentrated medical nourishment—it restores the healthy action of body cells, enriches the blood, sharpens the appetite, and feeds the nerve centres by distributing energy and power all over the body.

Don't resort to alcoholic mixtures or drug concoctions that stimulate and stupefy.

Get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion for your nerves—nothing equals or compares with it, but insist on Scott's.

EVERY DRUGIST HAS IT 13-78

You cannot be disappointed in Parisian Sage. It quickly stops itching head; cleans the hair of dust and excessive oil; takes away the dryness and brittleness; makes it seem twice as abundant and beautiful; it until it is soft, and lustrious. 6-7

Winter on the Farm.

Some people run of an idea that life on a farm in winter is a very dreary, lonley, slow-going time, but they labor under a great mistake. Of course out-of-doors differs with the seasons, but men are very busy all winter on farms in these days, for the care of animals is much different from what it was a few years ago, and certainly the hens is much increased, and nearly all farmers do some teaming, and they go to market once a week, and prepare their firewood, which is quite a job where two or three fires are kept all winter.

And in the house the women find plenty to do with washing, ironing, cooking, and care for the milk and making of butter, and the keeping of a house in order; and there is the repairing of bedding and clothing, making rugs and preparing for the coming summer's work, and company. There are "those long winter evenings" which city people tell about, but which we do not find as yet. Farm homes are well supplied with newspapers, magazines and books, and in every neighborhood there are several telephones. And the homes have most of the comforts enjoyed by people in the city.

Nearly all homes have water in the house and some are heated and some are lighted, and a good many have bath rooms and all sleeping rooms have windows and the houses are furnished comfortably. I always pity people who have no resource of happiness within themselves, and who seem blind and deaf to the beauties of nature which surround them. "The soft white blanket of winter" which spreads itself over the cold gray earth is beautiful in its purity, and out of it peeps the shrubs, some of which retain their foliage, and the colors are often rich, and then our forests with all their wealth of green are so restful to the eyes.

Some days we see little winter birds, who come from the nearby forests to pick the seeds from the tall weeds in the open, and the bluejays come out and send forth their familiar cries. Squirrels come out so brisk and gay and sit on the long tender branches of the tall trees and sway in the breeze and chatter away so brightly, even on cold stormy days One day recently on stepping out-of-doors to go to the small mail box, I heard a noise as of someone pounding on wood, and looking around to see what it meant, I saw a fine big woodpecker very busy in one of the shade trees.

There are places of amusement in the nearby villages, and nearly every farm community has a Grange or Farmers' Club, and the churches have entertainments, and people entertain in their homes to a certain extent, but not as they used to, for the old-time neighborhood sociability seems to have died out with the past generation, but there are the warm, comfortable rooms, and papers, books, magazines and writing materials, easy chairs, good lights, apples, and popcorn, and rest after the labors of the day, and when night has "dropped her sable curtain down and pinned it with a star" and the family gathers together, I know of no life more full of satisfaction than life on the farm and a Maine farm at that. [Maine Farmer.

Merton Warren of North Buckfield is having electric lights put into his farm buildings.

Word has been received here from Belle Fitzgerald, the former telephone operator of this town and who is now residing in Pinehurst, N. C., that her fine home in the White Mountains was totally destroyed by fire last week.

The Baptist Sewing Circle met with Mrs. Frank Warren of High street. Those who attended were: Mrs. Florence Fiske, Mrs. Carrie Rawson, Mrs. Eva Lunt, Mrs. Ada Shaw, Sadie Spaulding, Mrs. Mary Warrer, Mrs. Elizabeth Warren, Mrs. Minnie Giles, Sarah Barrett, Mrs. Florence Childs, Mrs. Hattie Jacobs two guests, Amy Shaw and Mrs. Fannie Gerrish and the hostess, Mrs. Warren. The work for the afternoon was on aprons. They are planning on having a dinner which will be held at Grange hall on Feb. 11.

Ed Allen of Hot Springs, Montana, is a guest in Buckfield. He arrived from Montana before Christmas and plans to stay till Feb. 12, as that is his mother's and his own birthday, and they wish to spend it together. They are with Mrs. Addie Forbes of East Buckfield, a cousin of Mr. Allen. Mr. Allen left Maine for Montana years ago and it will be 25 years next May since he has seen Maine. He and his wife, formerly Lizzie Briggs of Buckfield, went West to grow up with the country. A son was born to them and he is now with his father in the mill business in Montana and he is conducting it during M. Allen's visit to Buckfield.

Buildings Burned.

The modern set of buildings owned by Albert Jack near Wood's Pond on the Denmark road, were burned to the ground about 4 Saturday morning. Mr. Jack, who lives alone, heard a crackling noise and rose to find the woodwork around the chimney ablaze.

He aroused the neighbors but they unable to save the buildings. A small part of the furniture was removed. The house and stable were valued at about $1,200, being partially insured in the Fryeburg Insurance Company. There was no stock on the farm.

Stopping the Knife.

Wider Use of Serums to Lessen the Need of Surgical Operations.

No other investment made in the history of the world ever resulted in such beneficial returns as money invested in original research work. The newest thing in surgery is that we are trying to get away from it, and we have already accomplished wonders and hope for still greater things.

For instance, we have discovered that many ailments, at one time supposed to be due to different causes, are traceable to exactly the same germ. We now know that rheumatism is an infection caused by the same germ that in some patients causes ulcerated stomach, in others inflamation of the heart, in others general rheumatism, in others muscular rheumatism, and so on.

It all depends upon the soil the germ finds in the infected person what manifestation it make. So now rheumatism, which we once treated as a dietetic mistake, is treated as an infection. The confirmation of theory we owe to Dr. Rosenow, of the McCormack Contagious Disease Hospital fund staff. It was was original research work that did it.

Take common lock-jaw, if you want an example of our getting away from surgery. It was nothing uncommon in the old days in Chicago to have dozens of cases of locked jaws for which he had to operate, after a Fourth of July. Now we rarely have a locked jaw. Anti tetanus serum has done it.

Take diphtheria. You have heard of operations to relieve a patient. A surgeon is only a retailer. Supposing he saves a patient or two by an operation. What becomes of the untold multitude he cannot because of his physical limitations? The discovery of the antitoxin for the cure of diphtheria was their salvation. It works wholesale. In Paris, where they keep their statistics very well, the percentage of mortality in diphtheria cases was 54 Since the serum was discovered it has dropped to 13 16.

Over in India, you know, the natives are subject to dysentery. It kills them by the thousand. We had known that ipecac relieved the patient. A man named Rogers, who had been experimenting at Calcutta for years, recently discovered an alkaloid made from ipecac which is named emetine. He can cure all cases of dysentery in from three to five days by an injection of emetime. That's original research work.

You remember how we had to operate for an abscess of the liver, put in a tube that we didn't get out for months. Now, Rogers injects emetine, the abscess is killed and the liver heals itself.

Our great effort is to find a means of curing without resort to surgery. It is only by original research work that this can be accomplished. Therefore there is no higher purpose to which a rich man can put his money than endowing original research laboratories. The men who work in them work for a pittance—enough only to keep alive. Few of them reach fame.

Serums and antitoxins are going to take the place of the knife and the saw. The research laboratory will be the physical salvation of the race.

She closed her house here in the early fall and went to Woodfords to live with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Gerrish. She will be brought here for burial.

Carrol Bacon has opened a barber shop on Church street. The building occupied by him stands back a little and between A. C. Perham's barn and the Grange Hall. Mr. Bacon, while living at Trap Corner did quite a lot of this work evenings after working all day at the Paris Mfg. Co. Last fall he came over here with his family to live with Mrs. Martha Dunham through the winter. Later he moved his goods over and has them stored in one of H. W. Dunham's rents recently vacated by Frank Ring. He continues to work in the factory and does barber work in the evening.

Irish of Buckfield and Benjamin R. Billings of Bryant Pond.

The Methodists have again opened their church and Rev. C. H. Young through a very cordial invitation has consented to preach there each morning until conference time. Mr. Young has had no regular charge for the past two or three years on account of the poor health of his mother, Mrs. Anna C. Young, with whom he and his wife are living here. He has been away some on lecture trips when he uses some very fine picture slides for illustrations; also has taken part in revival work at different times. This fall he commenced going to Greenwood once in two weeks by request of the people there and since this year came in he has gone from there to South Woodstock and from there to North Paris on the alternate Sunday afternoons. Mr. Young is an earnest Christian worker and he gives his people deep thought and helpful sermons.

Warren B. McKeen, who has been dangerously sick from blood poisoning, remains about the same and there now seems to be hope of his recovery.

There was a good congregation at the village church Sunday morning, special notices having been given out for, "go-to-church" Sunday. Excellent music was furnished by a double quartet, with a violin solo by Mrs. E. H. Woodbury and Mrs. Carl N. Brown, accompanist.

Wood haulers have been much handicapped in their work because Jack Frost failed to bridge the ponds over strongly enough for their purposes; but now the weather and traveling are favorable, wood is moving more rapidly, and if all goes well till the middle of March many thousands of cords will have changed places.

Bad luck seems to have followed up Herbert Ring in regard to losing stock ever since he bought the Bryant farm some ten years ago. He has had three cows and as many horses during that time, to say nothing of smaller animals, the last one being his mare which he used for carrying milk to the Pond. He went to the stable the other morning and found her with a broken leg, his only alternative then being to kill her.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Benjamin F. Sanborn.

The decease of Benjamin Franklin Sanborn on Jan. 25, has taken from our town one of its most respected and useful citizens.

Mr. Sanborn was a son of Morrill B. and Rhoda (Mason) Sanborn of Limington, born March 17, 1856. He came to Waterfotd at the age of 21, where he learned the blacksmith trade of his brother, Lyman Sanborn.

He has lived and pursued his chosen trade to the last years of his life. He was a skilled workman and combined also the business of wood repairing of wheels, carts and carriages at which he was an adept.

In 1880 he married Minnie A. Jordan and settled in a pleasant farm home near the home of her parents. They had one son, Carroll B. Sanborn, who is a worthy successor to the property and mechanical business of his father.

Mr. Sanborn had six brothers and sisters: Mrs. Diantha Perkins, Limington; Enoch Sanborn, Bridgton; Lyman Sanborn, Lancaster, Mass.; Mrs. Emma Miller, Limington; Fred Sanborn, Boston; Mrs. Lydia Brown, Limington, deceased.

Mr. Sanborn was possessed of a strong constitution and his general physical health was only shadowed by a virulent heart disease which caused him to give up his shop work during the last autumn and was the final cause of his death. He is survived by his wife, son, two grandchildren, five brothers and sisters before meutioned and several nieces and nephews. Floral tributes:

Pillow, "Husband"—Mrs. Minnie Sanborn.
Wreath, "Father"—Mr. and Mrs. Carroll B. Sanborn.
Bouquet—Charles and Richard Sanborn.

Large floral horse-shoe—several friends.

Edward T. Cooper.

The intelligence of the decease of Edward T. Cooper of Norway, was received by his circle of friends here with sincere emotions of sadness and sorrow. During the four years of his residence in this village Mr. Cooper had, by his kindly social qualities and gentle manners won the sincere friendship and cordial esteem of all who knew him most intimately.

It was the privilege of the writer to visit Mr. Cooper while living here, many times and spend many pleasant hours in congenial chat upon subjects of mutual interest to each other, and on which my friend was generally well informed. In fact I may say there was no topic of public interest on which Mr. Cooper could not express a very ready and intelligent opinion.

He abounded in numerous reminiscenses of old Plymouth, his birthplace, and of Boston, where he had spent many years of his life in business as a contractor and builder. He had a wide acquaintance also with business men in Boston and in other cities and towns of whom he sometimes told racy anecdotes.

Mr. Cooper had in his younger life been connected with a sea-faring career, and had, at one period of his life lived a while in the South at Memphis, Tenn., I think and his experiences during all these varying phases of his life, contributed in a vivid manner to the interest of his conversation. Born in the very home of the Pilgrim forefathers it is agreeable to know that Mr. Cooper's mortal remains are at the last privilege I to be consigned to the native spot of his childhood.

Elsina York recently spent two weeks visiting friends in Bridgton.

The Waterford Ladies' Whist Club were entertained by their gentlemen friends on Saturday evening by a complimentary supper of oysters and appropriate accompaniments at Grange Hall.

Mrs. F. R. McLaughlin (nee Winnie D. Kneeland) a former resident of this village, for a number of years a resident of San Gabrial, Cal., in a recent letter to a friend here gives interesting details of her experiences during a term of jury service in the court of Los Angeles County. There were three other women on the same jury. Mrs. McLaughlin is a daughter of the late Harris Kneeland of this village and is well remembered for her bright scholarship and musical talents.

A letter from a friend in Melrose Mass., to your correspondent, has an item of much interest to the friends of Mrs. Hattie H. Eldridge of Jamaica Plain, who with her husband, as members of a Raymond & Whitcomb excursion party, sailed on Saturday, Jan. 24 from New York on the steamer Celtic, and are now on a voyage to Egypt, the Holy Land, old Damascus, Turkey and Greece. The itinerary of the excursion contemplates a month in Egypt, the pyramids, Nile, etc., and the entire trip is expected to consume four or five months. Mrs. Elbridge is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hancock, former residents of Otisfield, where she has numerous friends.

One of the finest old-time dance tunes, doubtless originating as far back as "good old Colony times" is "The White Cockade," a common favorite with the fiddlers of the last century, just adapted to a four hand reel. It is a perennial among the tunes of our grandfather's time. It ranks with "The girl I left behind me," "Forest of Bondi" and "Fisher's hornpipe." I heard Chandler's band play it in Portland years ago with grand variations for the bugle such as only D. H. Chandler was accustomed to play. Apropos of this tune I remember a gay verse adapted to be sung to this tune quite commonly known and sung by young folks in my kidhood, to wit:

The White Cockade and the peacock's feather
The Raymond girls will dance forever;
The Otisfield girls will dance for fun,
The Harrison girls will hop and run.

A revised version should be extended to include Waterford and other girls who love to trip it and skip it.

SEVERE RHEUMATIC PAINS DISAPPEAR

Hood's Sarsaparilla Will Surely Bring Relief—Don't Suffer.

Rheumatism, which perhaps causes more suffering than any other disease, depends on an acid which flows in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain.

This acid gets into the blood through some defect in the digestive processes, and remains there because the liver, kidneys and skin are too torpid to carry it off.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old-time blood tonic, is very successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It acts directly, with purifying effect, on the blood, and through the blood on the liver, kidneys and skin, which it stimulates, and at the same time it improves the digestion.

Don't delay treatment until you are in worse condition. Get Hood's and begin taking it today.

WEST SUMNER.

Mrs. Amanda Bisbee is confined to the house by illness.

A baked bean dinner was served by the Baptist society, Wednesday, Feb. 3.

Mrs. Fannie Adams of Paris has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Fannie Lothrop.

An Old Folks' Ball will be given by the Ladies' Aid Society, Friday, Feb. 6. An oyster supper will be served at intermission.

Sydney F. Brown of Reading, Mass., and Mary Humpreys of New York City are to be married Feb. 11, and are coming to West Sumner early in the spring to pass the summer.

Elmer Ford, who has been in poor health for several weeks, went to Portland, Sunday, to consult a specialist. He was accompanied by his physician, Dr. Staples.

Several couples from here attended the drama entitled "Above the Clouds," which was well presented by the East Sumner Grange, Tuesday evening. A dance followed the play, which was well patronized and enjoyed. An excellent supper was served between the hours of 6 and 8.

Happygrams.

In Norway, Me., where the hills are long and steep, down in the meadows where the brooks run still and deep; it is there the robins sing when I awake from my sleep. It is there I long to stay, and I never want to go away, from this town so neat and gay, where the breezes gently play all the day; through the meadows where the daisies bloom so bright and free, and through the shady dells I love to stray until the close of day, passing time and dull cares away.

Then at the close of day as the shades of night gently fall and I homeward go away, I hear the breezes gently sigh, good night, meet us another day.

Oxford Public Library Building.

Oxford's new public library which will be dedicated this week is now completed and is a gem, the design being carried out in half timbered English style. The building is located on Main street, the lot on which it is erected being donated by C. S. Hayes.

The idea of the town having a public library building originated with Mrs. Kate Starbird, who brought the matter before the members of the Ladies at a meeting three years ago. Through her efforts subscriptions were started and generous donations were made by the townspeople and friends who are interested in its welfare and now the town is making preparations to dedicate the beautiful building which will be of much educational value to the community and a memorial to the woman who has labored for such a worthy cause.

Work was begun last August, the plans having been drawn by Harry D. Olmsted of Hartford, Conn. A. W. Walker & Son of South Paris, were the builders and the approximate cost of the structure is $3500.

The lower part is constructed with cement blocks while the upper section is half timbered between which is an asbestos wall, the half timbered effect is also visible at the cornice all the rafters showing. The roof is shingled and stained green.

There are 28 diamond panelled windows in the building and of similar design in the door. All the lumber used in the half timbered work which is painted a light brown is cyprus, and the interior finish is of the same material. The steps are cement and over the doorway is an old English designed lantern, the gift of an interested friend.

The vestibule opens into the delivery room. At the left is the reading room with its many diamond panelled windows and fireplace. The walls and ceiling are beautifully tinted with Colonial yellow, the work of Harry Cochrane of Monmouth. The furnishings here will be solid oak.

At the right of the delivery room is the stack room which is well arranged for the purpose. It is equipped with a heavy oak table and other oak furnishings. The electric light fixtures are most appropriate, being of brush brass. These were also donated.

There is also a toilet room and finished stairway to the basement. Here the floor and walls are all cement and a hot air furnace has been installed. Should it become necessary part of the basement can be used for a stock room.

Ladies who have been interested in the movement have been busy arranging the books of the Freeland Holmes Library which have been in a room in the rear of Jones drug store for many years. All these books will be placed in the new building and more will be added from time to time. Among those who have donated volumes are Joseph R. Parrott, Mrs. H. E. Hersey, A. J. Holden, Louisa Holmes, Mrs. Roxy French, Mrs. Mary Wilder.

The Brown charging system will be used and the library will be open two afternoons and one evening each week. When all the books are arranged there will be about 2000 volumes. Ex-Governor B. M. Fernald has been invited to assist in the dedication.

The Bitter Truth.

For The Trapper.

Some Rules That Might Help Those Who Are Interested Thus.

The lure of the chase of the woods and the wooded wastes; of the mountain and the flood is the birthright of man, having its transmission in the blood of humanity, since our forefathers battled for their existance when the cities of our country were wild places of an earlier century, and man procured his daily rations by artifice of the hunt, by matching his cunning against the cunning of the bird, beast, and water-creacure of the forest and the rapid.

The trapping of animals has, however, lost none of its charm since the days of the pioneer, but the incentive of the occupation has changed from necessity to sport.

Yet in the trapping and luring of wild animals, not so much for the food as for the fur. Canadian wilds have, since the white man learned the Indian trapper's art, provided an occupation very lucrative for those who have followed its pursuit, and though the days of the explorer have almost passed away; though he ceases to drive his canoe along streams unknown, dotted here and there by dangerous rapids and falls; ceases to portage through trackless forest; for the fur-bearing animals which were once so numerous in Canada, there is still in this age of civilization, a profitable living in fur hunting.

Strange as it may seem the catch of furs today is greater and of more value than when this country was a wilderness. For whilst the professional trapper has almost disappeared, the bulk of furs being caught by the ambitious farmer and his son, in order to add a substantial sum to their income, the means of trappings are now so numerous that the annual catch has become greater today than heretofore.

The aspirant to trapper's honors or the procurations of furs, can, however, find all he needs in the way of experience around his own neighborhood, and will find that a winter spent in the woods will help him to add handsomely to his finances and provide ample sport in a good season.

There never was a better outlook for the winter catch than exists in Canada today. Demand for all classes of furs was never better. Skunk furs are more popular in Canada than heretofore, muskrat furs are finding new uses year by year. This season the highest prices for many years have been procured, despite the fact that there has been an unusually large catch of skunk and muskrat owing to the hard winter of 1911. Everything was frozen up and this prevented a large catch at that time and allowed of more prolific and extensive breeding, giving a larger crop for the present year.

In reference to trapping Hallam's guide says:

"It is not necessary to wait until the trapping season opens in order to locate places to set traps, but in passing through the woods look carefully for signs of animals; here you may find a bunch of feathers, mute remains of a woodland tragedy; here an ear of corn or other vegetable partly eaten; here a den tree with its bark scratched by climbing racoons; here a hole in the ground with tracks in the soil and hair on the side of the entrance, proclaiming the home of the skunk; here trails made by passing animals and their droppings which proclaim their presence while on sandbars and in the mud along the streams and lakes you find tracks of mink, muscrat, racoon, and other animals, that seek their food in and near the water. All these signs should be carefully observed and their location noted for the purpose of trapping later in the season. They tell their tales to the experienced trapper, and if the amature is to make a success of trapping, he must be of an observing disposition, study out the cause of these signs, and learn to read the forest, so that he may successfully match his reason against the instinct and natural wariness of the various animals.

If you trap in your neighborhood you should go over the ground in the late summer and early fall and prepare places to set your traps, so that the animals will become accustomed to the change before the season opens, by placing a log, stump or chunks in a ditch or small stream in such a manner that there is left only a small passageway for the animals at one side, by digging a trench across a neck of land, running into a stream, so that the water will pass through about one inch deep, and covering it over with grass or chunks and the passing mink cannot resist the temptation to pass through; by making cubbies in the woods, and by scattering bait at different places and observing on your next trip whether it has been taken, thus learning what animals, if any, are in that particular locality; in this manner you become thoroughly acquainted with your grounds, and when the season opens for trapping you know the best place to set your traps.

It is well to remember that few fur-bearing animals travel to any extent in the day time, and that many a fine mink has been caught in localities where the "oldest inhabitant" has declared he has not seen one for 20 years.

The successful trapper is one who is observing, uses good judgment and is careful to make his set properly, using that set best adapted to the circumstances of the case and the animal he desires to capture, and in this manner secures furs which if properly handled bring him a very substantial return for the time spent besides affording him the pleasure and excitement of a life lived in the open."

Don't use bright traps, but boil them in water with pine, spruce, hemlock, or balsam boughs or walnut hulls; after boiling half an hour the trap becomes coated with a paint-like substance. Take the traps out, hang in the sun to dry. The coating will get hard, and will keep them from rusting, and kill the smell of iron rust, etc.

Don't commence trapping too early. One prime skin frequently brings more money than two or more caught early in the season.

From February to March is the mating season for mink. Save every mink sack, squeeze contents into a bottle, with fish oil, as it is a lure to both sexes; to bait, dip a stick in the bottle, and place in the hole beyond the trap.

An excellent way to kill either a mink or a weasel is to stun it with a club, and then crush in the ribs. When this is done there will be no blood clot on the pelt.

When setting traps, do not disturb the surroundings more than is absonecessary, and leave them looking as natural as possible; while some animals are not suspicious, others are, and if care is used, you will frequently catch some other animal in your trap than the one expected.

Use gloves smeared with blood or coated with beeswax when handling and setting your traps, so as to avoid as much as possible leaving human scent. Gloves used for trapping should be used for nothing else. Some trappers do not think this necessary, but the majority advise it, and a little care may materially increase your catch.

Do not spit near your traps, or you will leave human scent. Never put kerosene oil on your traps as animals will not go near them while the odor remains.

Never take your dog with you on the trap line, as mink and some other animals can scent a dog for days afterward.

Whenever possible, splash water over your set and surroundings, as water washes away human scents.

Before setting your trap, test it to see that it is in good working order, and unless you can put it in good order, throw it away. Traps are cheaper than furs, and it is usually the good pelt that gets away from a defective trap.

To whiten traps for snow sets, boil lime in water and immerse the trap for a short time, and it will come out perfectly white.

Spring Fashions.

The newest gowns from Paris, those which exclusive dressmakers are hiding in tissue papers at the bottom of huge wardrobe drawers, are made of challis.

This material has come to the front with a rush. Premet, Callot, Cheruit and Paquin are using challis in the place of foulards, and are producing gowns of incomparable loveliness made of this wonderful material.

The fashions of the hour in Paris demand the use of materials of particularly soft finish, while the designs and colorings of these modes are so insistent as to require the most careful handling and artistic treatment. Without doubt we shall see the greatest vogue for gowns of all sorts and descriptions made of cottons of varying weights and designs since the Civil War.

Then it was that the humble calico was deemed a suitable material for a lady of high degree, even, to wear. Today and for the immediate future we shall observe this vogue repeated, with challis, of either cotton or wool weaving, the most prominently demanded among cotton fabrics.

Some manufacturers and many costumers declare gowns of challis will be so strong a feature of the spring modes as to supersede the popularity of the foulards.

Colorings are all vivid, but not crudely so. In every instance strong colored backgrounds are softened in effect by the clever introduction of printed designs in contrasting colors, so that the general effect is decidedly soft and Oriental in appearance.

Almost any waist line will do. The newer and most fashionably correct will be the hip line. A loose low-lying waist line, in many instances no waist line at all, for all dresses. But for suits the normal line or the slightly lifted line will be fashionably correct.

There will be much fulness over and around the hips, a very narrow, ankle-width skirt, slashed, opened to the knee or split at the back and lifted a little at this position and puffy frills with tie backs to keep them in position.

Jackets are short, in fact jackets are again to have their way.

The separate short coat will appear in every sort of material and for wear on every occasion.

The sleeveless jacket is another imminent coat style. It is being worked into every sort of gown even the cotton, I mean the numberless new models now being shown made of crepes in legions of kinds, embroidered as well as printed: the challis, voiles and mulls.

All such gowns are very sheer. Therefore the invariable tunic, with its two or three skirts, is seemingly made in one piece with a corselet waist or jacket, low-girdled and without sleeves.

This permits the underbody of the frock to be made of the sheerest of mulls, tulles or net, and even strasse. The sleeves of such bodices reach to the wrist and are bishop-sleeve shaped or confined in quaint puffed effects, something after the fashion of the old Elizabethan sleeve of great antiquity.

In suits great latitude of styles is permitted.

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLIE WATERS, 1135 Knight St., Camden, N.J.

And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

UTICA, OKLA.—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to be on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Utica, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year.

Leaves Kidneys In Weakened Condition.

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptons of grip this year are often very distressing and leaves the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary trouble which should not be neglected, as these danger signals of en lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who request it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50cts. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure and mention this paper. 6-9

STUART W. GOODWIN, Agent. NORWAY, MAINE

Joseph Andrew's Letters.

The three days spent in Seattle were busy ones. As I took no notes, I cannot write of them as fully as I would wish, and will have to trust mostly to memory. I took many trips about the city on the street car lines. Every day I was on the go, seeing many of the sights of the city beautiful. I spent one half day at Ballard, the great saw mill section where a large number of great saw mills saw out vast quantities of shingles, lathes, boards, joists and other lumber which is shipped mostly by water to eastern markets.

I spent another half day in tramping over the great State University grounds, and viewing the fine large buildings that have been erected there. The grounds are beautiful and the drives and walks are adorned by many flowers and shrubs. The elevation is high, and on one side slopes gently down to the shores of Lake Washington. With Parris I visited the Navy yard several miles out of the city. The dry dock there is one of the largest in the country, and will accommodate our largest war ships.

The battleship Pennsylvania was in the dock being repaired. Members of the crew kindly showed us over the ship from the top deck to the lowest plank. It is indeed a most wonderful fighting machine, and knowing the skill and daring of our men behind the guns, we know that should occasion call for warlike action, American ships and American sailors will uphold the honor of our dear old flag.

Seattle has the tallest building west of New York City, the Smith building, an immense structure of steel and cement rising majestically towards the heavens to a height of 42 stories.

Puget Sound is a wonderful inland water way. It extends east and south away beyond Tacoma, and to the north away up between Vancouver Island and British Columbia I know not how many hundreds of miles. It is several miles in width and has an outlet to the ocean through Juan de Fuca states. Seattle is nearly a hundred miles from the ocean in a bee line. And the great Olympia mountain range some fifty miles distant stand like great sentinels between Seattle and the broad Pacific. (Mount Olympia is over 8,000 feet high.) East of Seattle some fifty or sixty miles away stands Mount Rainier-Tacoma, over 14,000 feet in height and next to Mt. Whitney in California, the tallest mountain in the United States outside of Alaska. Seattle had in 1910 a population of 237,194, and at the present time it is estimated at about 280,000.

Any city of any note has on the Pacific Coast its Chamber of Commerce whose duty it is to advertise the city and surrounding country, and who prepare and publish pamphlets descriptive of their various charms and attractions which are mailed free of cost to all who write for or ask for them. These pamphlets are as a rule reliable, I would advise all who contemplate a trip to the World's Fair in 1915 to write for guide books and other information to the Chamber of Commerce in the various cities which they expect to visit. Then they can prepare a schedule of their journey beforehand, which will add much to the pleasure of their trip.

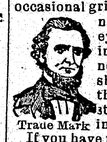

That part of Northern California, Origon and Washington, through which I traveled, reminded me very much of Maine. Lovely valleys, silvery lakes, hills both small and large and small mountains all around, and in the distance great mountain ranges were always visible. And everywhere, on hill and valley, where the woodman with his axe had not laid low the giants of the forest, an immense growth of native timber grew.

The task of opening up a farm and clearing the land of trees and stumps must be immense, but when once cleared there is no large rock to move, and the soil is much more productive than in New England. I have had no experience in making money in that section of the country. But I know from personal experience that it is a good place to spend money in. And I think also that the tourist crop in the Coast country is one of their most valuable crops.

They have a delightful all-the-year-around climate. They have a soil rich and productive. They can raise flowers, fruit, vegetables, grain, hay and farm animals in untold quantities. They have fast growing cities and great manufacturing plants and great forests to supply the world with lumber. Their greatest drawback has been the long and expensive haul by railroad to the eastern markets. When the Panama Canal has been opened to the traffic of the world, and cheap water transportation is established it will no doubt bring great wealth and prosperity to the cities and various industries that are established in the Sunshine belt of our Pacific States.

Changeable Climate

IS A CONSTANT THREAT TO THE HEALTH OF THE PEOPLE.

Dr. Hartman, of Columbus, Ohio, discusses an important health topic. He says:

Yes, it is the climate, not the germs, that we have to fear in this country. The germs are present, to be sure, and are of some significance in diagnosis. Climate, a changeable climate, is the true cause of disease. The atmospheric pressure varies, the humidity of the atmosphere changes. Every day the temperature rises and falls. All this presents to the body very great trials to adjust to.

The area of high pressure forms in the northwest. Moves rapidly southeast, subjecting millions of our population to its influence. The result is, thousands upon thousands of people catch cold. A small per cent. of these thousands do not get well of their cold. It goes into pneumonia, or chronic catarrh, or bronchitis, or laryngitis, or pleurisy.

Now, what I am getting at is this. These climatic changes are inevitable. No one can prevent them. The very best we can do is to prepare for them, defend ourselves against them.

Good health is the best preventive. The very best. Vigorous health, with excess vitality, this is Nature's own preventive and protection.

We do not all have this, however. Some of us must have assistance. The assistance that I use for myself, would recommend for my friends to use, my neighbors and my countrymen, is Pe-ru-na. Keep Pe-ru-na in the house.

If the children indicate they are catching cold, give them Pe-ru-na.

If the parents, the grandfather or grandmother, present those symptoms that are so well known which precede a cold, a few doses of Pe-ru-na and the deed is done.

Some people are very subject to colds. Others who have weak lungs and are timid about our winter weather, take Pe-ru-na off and on during the whole winter season. The plan is a good one. The medicine is inexpensive. It does no possible harm to the system. It keeps the appetite regular and keen. It assists digestion and helps the user through the inclement weather of winter.

No Cure Climate.

I am sending this clipping for the Advertiser, thinking perhaps it may be of help to someone:—

"The public health officials, at Washington, have sent out a general warning to the effect that a change in climate by itself is not likely to cure tuberculosis, and that the practice of sending consumptives to one central point, for a cure is be deplored. That is exactly in accordance with experience.

"The practice, which prevailed so widely, until within the past 10 years, of sending consumptives to the Rocky Mountain States, was in most cases cruel and wholly wrong. And in like degree it is almost as bad today, to send consumptives to sanitoriums, when they can be more benefitted at home. That is just as true in Massachusetts as elsewhere.

"This commonwealth will never successfully extinguish the great white plague, until the relief of most consumptives is given to them in their own homes, under competent state und local inspection; for the immediate surroudings of the average consumptive count tremendously in his or her cure.

It is decidedly belated action, this of the express companies in reducing their rates. Had they taken it a few years ago, probably the parcel post would never have been started. The hoggishnesr of the express companies was about as clear a case of killing the goose that laid the golden eggs as we have ever seen.

Mrs. Robert E. Peary.

If women had had a say in the matter, Mrs. Robert E. Peary would probably have been made a rear admiral at the same time this honor was conferred on her husband by the Congress. Certain it is that no woman has ever played a more dramatic, heroic, but modest part in a great world achievement than Mrs. Peary played in her husband's discovery of the north pole. She not only gave sympathy, courage, inspiration and years of patient, uncomplaining suspense to the enterprise: she actually accompanied her husband on six or seven expeditions, shared with him the hardships and thrilling adventures of life in the Arctic and took some part in the practical constructive work of every expedition she accompanied.

Mrs. Peary speaks of her Arctic experiences as modestly as if they had been nothing more than sojourns in the Maine woods.

"I had been married just three years," she says, "when, filled with enthusiasm and curiosity with regard to life in the Arctic, I decided to accompany my husband on an expedition. My mother consented to this on condition that I be accompanied by a woman. Mr. Peary began to look for a middle-aged, motherly soul and found exactly seven such women for whom the Arctic held no terrors. They all wanted to go. We chose one from that number and in August of that year set sail on Arctic seas. By September we were established at winter quarters and in that month my eldest child, Marie Ahnighito, was born.

"Did the baby have a cold' you ask?" Why, never until we got back to civilization. The floor of our room was so cold that it was necessary to have ice chopped from the floor every few days. The baby spent the first five months of her life on a bed that was raised several feet from the floor. The climate agreed with her perfectly. Her middle name, Ahnighito, means snow-baby, you know. She was the object of awe and curiosity to the Esquimos, who had never seen a white child and who would travel across wastes of ice and snow to have a look at her.

"I spent five wdddings anniversaries with my husband at the camp, so later in years we called it 'Anniversary Lodge.' My first expedition was the only one on which I was accompanied by a woman. No, I cannot say that life in the Arctic seemed a thing of hardship or that I ever felt to a disagreeable degree the sensation of cold. It was never as hard to accompany my husband, to do the cooking for the partp or to perform any other duties which naturally fall to a woman as it was to stay at home and wait, not knowing whether Mr. Peary was dead or alive."

Three years was the longest period which Rear Admiral and Mrs. Peary spent away from each other during his quest of the pole. On one of the explorer's trips in the Arctic one of his children was born and died without ever having looked upon its father's face. Crushed by the loss of her child, Mrs. Peary's grief was almost unbearable by anxiety with regard to her husband and by newspaper reports to the effect that he had lost both feet. She took her daughter Marie, then a girl of five and boarded the ship for the Arctic with supplies for Peary's party.

Upon reaching the camp in the Arctic, she found that Commander Peary, in ignorance of her coming, had penetrated 250 miles further north. There was nothing to do but return without seeing him. She again boarded ship, but as ill luck would have it, the vessel was caught and held by ice floes for a year. During this time, cheered by the companionship of her little daughter and the kindness of the crew, she made the best of a bad situation.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Peary have a home in Maine where they spend six months of every year. Their house is filled with wonderful souvenirs of their experiences. During the present season they have taken a furnished house in Washington, where they live every winter and recently they presented their young daughter Marie, to society. Mrs. Peary's mother was always keenly interested in Rear Admiral Perry's explorations and her daughter's Arctic experience.

OXFORD

Newton Littlewood.

Newton Littlewood passed away at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, January 25th, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. L. Faunce, wife of Postmaster Faunce of Somersworth, N. H.

He had been ailing for some time with heart trouble and this together with a general breaking up in health due to old age was the cause of his death. He had been confined to his bed but two weeks, but for a number of weeks prior to that it could be seen that he was failing rapidly.

The deceased was 84 years of age and was born at Yorkshire, England, where he lived until a young man, when he came to the United States. His parents were Charles and Thersa (Moorehouse) Littlewood and he was one of a family of six children of whom but one brother is now living.

His wife whom he married at Dexter, Me., was Miss Orpha Anne Chandler of that town, who survives him. Of the five children born to them but one daughter, Mrs. A. L. Faunce, is living. They have four grandchildren, Clyde and Nina Faunce of Somersworth, N. H., Mrs. Arthur Hoffman of Stoneham, Mass. and Gladys Littlewood of Ballardvale, Mass.

Mr. Littlewood was a member of the Pennesseewassee Lodge Knights of Pythias of Norwry, having joined that order over thirty years ago.

He lived in Oxford forty years and worked in the woolen mill of the Robinson Mfg. Co. It was eight years ago that he and his wife came to make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Faunce.

In politics he was a republican and was a firm believer in the principles for which the party stands. In religion he was an Episcopalian having joined that church in England when a young man. All through his life he was very considerate of others and never made trouble for anyone. This same thoughtfulness was shown during his illness. The deceased was a man of sterling character, quiet and unassuming but whose word was as good as his bond. Those who knew him best came to appreciate his worth most.

Rev. Leon R. Morse pastor of the Methodist church conducted the funeral services which were held at the residence of postmaster Faunce on Prospect Street. The remains were placed in the receiving tomb until spring when they will be taken to Oxford and buried in the family lot. The floral tributes from relatives and friends were large and beautiful, several offerings coming from friends out of town.

Mrs. Augustus Smith is on the sick list.

Gussie Wardwell is spending a few days in Portland.

Rev. Mr. Pottle of Waterville supplied for Rev. Mr. Lindsey at the M. E. church.

Edith Thomas has been staying with Mrs. Frost during Eva Frost's absence at the hospital. It is expected that the new library building will be opened to the public soon. Mrs. Kats Starbird is to be the librarian.

Beth Morris spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday in Portland with her aunt Mrs. Winfield Chase.

F. A. Delano was sick last week and Geo. Turner, his substitute, had to take his R. F. D. Route, No. 3.

Mrs. Pennock returned from Portland Wednesday, after an absence of eight weeks. She will work for Mrs. Llewellyn Smith for a short time.

Leo. Bowie is having a bad time with a lame foot. He went to Lewiston Wednesday of last week. Mr. Jones is getting along alone while he is absent.

J. W. Dunn and wife were in Lewiston last week on business. They visited their daughter Mrs. Waite of Mechanic Falls before returning.
